To continue our initiative to identify and mitigate risk, we have now written to over 90% of our live suppliers asking them to confirm, amongst other things, the steps they have taken to ensure human trafficking or modern slavery is not taking place in their supply chain. We have also asked them to provide details of the parts of their business which are of potential risk and explain the steps they have taken to minimise or monitor such risks. Each letter is being followed up proactively and our aim is to ensure that a satisfactory response is received from all of our suppliers.
